Craze for Beads, Paillettes, Spikes and Lozenges in Jet and Many Colors—Jet and Crystal Is Favored Combination
Description of Charming Dinner Gowns by Worth and Doucet—Hints on Cooking Summer Vegetables—How to Keep Buttons on Thin Net and Lace Waists—Recipe for Orange Dessert.

BEAD TUNICS ABOUND.

The craze for beads grows and grows. Whole departments in the shops are given over to beads alone—not to beaded trimmings, for those have a separate counter to themselves—but to strings of beads, paillettes, spikes, and lozenges, in jet, in crystal, in coral, in turquoise and in every known color of costume now. Jet and crystal is a favored combination; so is jet and rhinestones; and not in several seasons have all-black, jet-trimmed evening gowns been as fashionable as they are this year. Worth is always partial to black and white combinations which express to his mind the sort of quiet-toned but smart costume a conservative gentlewoman should affect. But, as Worth well knows, there is infinite variety in black and white, and many are its possibilities! A stunning dinner gown just turned out at the house of Worth for an English beauty, is of white tango crepe—a silken stuff with the luster of crepe de chine, but the soft limpness of liberty silk. Over a clinging skirt of this white tango crepe, which is draped up to show buttoned dancing slippers of white satin, falls a double tunic of jet and rhinestones. Below the waist is a very short, puffed tunic of the white tango crepe and the entire bodice is formed of a broad sash of this crepe which touches the bust line at the front and at the back is formed into a huge butterfly bow whose loops are drawn up to the shoulders and attached to strings of jet beads. These jet strings pass over the bare shoulder and hold up the top of the sash at the front. Of course, for decency's sake there is a film of tulle above this sash-bodice, but as it is utterly invisible at a few paces distant, it might as well be omitted. Sleeves of white chiffon, however, extending over the hand, make up for the deficiency of material in the bodice. They are attached, seemingly to the strings of beads over the shoulder and give a very smart effect to the gown. With this arresting black and white costume will be carried a huge black feather fan.

A black dinner gown recently turned out by Doucet has a white bodice, to be sure, but this scrap of white in the black creation is almost negligible. Black tulle sleeves are adroitly mitered into the white tulle bodice with hemstitched seams. The skirt, with graceful drapery and train, is of black nocturne satin and over it falls a tunic of airy black tulle, having two trills set on with cording. Against the black sash is tucked a big rose made of the new lacquered ribbon in a vivid American Beauty shade—the most effective color with a black evening costume. The white tulle bodice is ornamented along the line of the décolletage with pearl and pink beads.

HINTS ON COOKING SUMMER VEGETABLES.

Vegetables with a strong flavor, like cabbage, onions and turnips, should be cooked in a large amount of water and kept boiling rapidly. Such vegetables will improve with the addition of a bit of soda. The soda helps to soften the fiber of these vegetables, and when the water is to be all poured off, no appreciable trace of the soda remains. But don't use soda with beans, peas, carrots or other sweet-juiced vegetables. These should be cooked in a small amount of salted water. Soda destroys the delicate green color of these vegetables, while salt intensifies it. Gently simmering these vegetables also helps them to retain their color and natural flavor. Soft water is considered better than hard for cooking vegetables. When it is used, care should be taken that it is perfectly pure. Summer vegetables should be cooked as soon after gathering as possible. Deterioration is especially noticeable in asparagus, peas and corn. People who raise their own vegetables notice that even in potatoes and carrots there is a decided difference between the freshly dug and those kept for some time. When they must be kept, they should be put in a cool, well ventilated cellar or in the ice box. Lettuce keeps well if sprinkled and put between two wet cloths, either on the ice or in a cool basement.

Wilted vegetables may be freshened if allowed to soak in cold water. Old wilted potatoes become solid and crisp when soaked in cold water; if soaked for long after paring, they lose some of their starch and mineral matter.

Summer squash, string beans, cabbage, asparagus, cauliflower, cucumbers, beets, turnips and carrots are all improved by standing for a time in cold water.

TO KEEP THE BUTTONS ON

With thin net, lace or fine mull waists, where it is difficult to fasten the buttons so they will stay and not pull out pieces of the goods in ironing or washing, try sewing the buttons on to a strip of tape or neatly hemmed strip of firm cloth the shade of the waist material. Work but tonholes in both edges of your waist and button them, one over the other, on to the strip. If you get a very nice quality of shank buttons, they may be made to serve several waists in this way and are no trouble at all to adjust. This is a nice way to fasten stiff shirt-waist fronts, as the plait may be so much more easily ironed without the presence of buttons.

ORANGE DESSERT.

Take half as many large juicy oranges as there are people to be served, and cut them in halves crosswise. Scoop out the pulp, leaving the shell nice and smooth. Mix with the orange pulp various fruits: sliced bananas, shredded pineapple, or any other fruits that may be desired. Then refill the shells and on top sprinkle shredded coconut. In the center put a candied or maraschino cherry.

PRICE BOOSTERS BUSY.

Price, May 7.—Former Secretary Will G. Farrell delivered an address on organization and other purely business phases of public progressiveness in industry and commercial activity before the Price Chamber of Commerce tonight. The meeting was attended by more than 150 business men and the enthusiasm was up to the highest pitch.

The Chamber of Commerce is the outgrowth of the old old Commercial and Automobile clubs, and since the reorganization the men composing the new body have taken hold in earnest to boost Price and the surrounding region.

Among the achievements of tonight was the reception of twenty-two members, bringing the total up to 140. It was also decided to make an appropriation of $50 a month to the city brass band to give a concert each week on Saturday night during the summer. Members of the Chamber of Commerce who own automobiles arranged to take a get-acquainted trip into the towns of Emery county during the present month.

Utah day will be observed on May 15, when the mayor will declare a holiday and prize essays of high school students will be read and a program of amusements rendered.

Don't Let a Cold Settle on Your Lungs

If you have a persistent cough or cold, take warning before it is too late. Eckman's Alternative has restored to health many persons who had serious lung trouble. Read of this case:—

Pleasantville, N. J.
 "Gentlemen:—During the winter of 1911 I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. Eckman's Alternative was recommended to me and I commenced using it as a last resort. The first bottle seemed to give no relief, in fact, I seemed to feel worse, but I kept on using the medicine and found out the first bottle had really started me on the road to recovery by loosening the mucus and making me expectorate freely. After using the medicine for some time, my cough ceased. I gained flesh and today I am a well man."

FEDERAL AID FOR RAILROADS NEEDED.

Salt Lake, May 8.—Urging that the railroad problem of Utah be included in exercises on Utah Development day, which is May 15, President W. F. Jensen of the National club has written to every commercial organization in the state. In his letter Mr. Jensen calls attention to the necessity of more railroads in Utah to serve large bodies of agricultural lands which are now without adequate transportation. He expresses his belief that there should be a general movement for state or federal aid for the construction of such roads.

GIRLS PLAY BALL: ONE IS INJURED.

Salt Lake, May 8.—Eva Holmberg, 16 years of age, was painfully, but not seriously, injured yesterday on the Whittier school grounds when she was struck on the head by a ball bat thrown by a girl from the Riverside school girls' baseball team. Miss Holmberg was waiting for a turn at the bat, when the girl of the opposing team struck at the ball, but missed. The bat slipped from her hands and struck Miss Holmberg on the head, inflicting a scalp wound. Dr. Whitney was called and took three stitches in her scalp.

AWARD SCHOOL CONTRACT.

Pocatello, Idaho, May 7.—The school board met in extra session last night for the purpose of looking over the bids of several companies for the construction of the two new school buildings to be erected in Pocatello. The contract was awarded to the North Pacific Construction Co. for $61,525 without the bidding plan. There were eight other bidders, including the Gillis-Brittall company of Salt Lake.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WINS.

American Fork, Utah, May 7.—In a game of baseball today at the city park between the regular team and the high school nine, the students won an easy victory over the old timers by the score of 14 to 5. This was the first game the old boys had played since last season, and the high school team with their spring training, easily outclassed them. Young Bennett pitched for the high and did some good work. He appeared to have the stuff in him for a good pitcher.

NOTICE, REBEKAHS

WILLIAM BALDERSON MEETS SUDDEN DEATH

Salt Lake, May 8.—Word was received yesterday at the field service division office of the United States general land office that William Balderson, for many years registrar of the local land office at Boise, Idaho, and former editor of the Idaho Daily Statesman, had dropped dead in Boise several days ago. Mr. Balderson was well known in Salt Lake and in all parts of the intermountain country. Balderson's sudden death will have the effect of absolutely stopping
